There will be time for an open conversation between the audience and the panel of speakers.

Theological Forum

What part does social justice play in the mission of the church?

A discussion for church leaders, theological educators and students

Friday 11th September 2009 10:00am to 12:30pm
Tabor College 222 Oban Road Ringwood North, Vic

There has been a growing interest among Australian churches in social justice and poverty alleviation. But there seems to be a diverse theological understanding of what justice means, what it "looks like" in practice, and what relationship it has with the church's mission. The forum seeks to encourage conversations among Christian thinkers and pastors, so that there can be greater clarity on the topic.
